

Cliquidity Motivation Assessment

Brief report for Michael Sample

Date of assessment: 16 October 2017 Report ID: 5894953444048896

The Cliquidity Motivation Assessment report provides descriptions of the dynamics involved in how your energy is directed to achieve certain goals. Motivation, as defined in this report, involved needs, motive, desires, behaviour, and awareness. This may be physiologically, psychologically or culturally based and may vary in terms of focus and intensity.

These results are confidential. Cliquidity will not share them with anyone without your permission.

1. Life Script

The life script is a theme that reflects your general patterns of behaviour, which is organised around your identity-related goals and purposes.

Intentional

You are likely to:

- be future-orientated and show a sense of purpose and focus
- visualise your own goals and integrate them into your own identity
- be individualistic and independent-minded
- appreciate energy, clarity and goal-directedness
- not easily get side-tracked by problems / circumstances
- be resilient, performance-driven, influential and committed
- show self-discipline and good self-management
- be rigorous and controlling at times

2. Motivation (Head, Heart and Feet)

Your motivation in life, work and relationships is evaluated in terms of how detailed you are, how much energy you invest and how much control you exercise.

	Life	Work	Relationships
Graphic representation
Head: differentiation / detail	 Low Open-minded, intuitive and holistic	 Medium Flexible - structured and intuitive	 Low Open-minded, intuitive and holistic
Heart: involvement / energy invested	 Low Reserved and unemotional	 Low Reserved and unemotional	 Medium Composed and relaxed
Feet: control exercised	 Low Possibly dissatisfied with own control	 Low Possibly dissatisfied with own control	 Low Possibly dissatisfied with own control

3. Dynamic Personality Patterns (The Enneagram)

The Enneagram indicates the core drivers of behaviour as one of nine patterns by focusing on how people have adapted to the world when they do not feel accepted, secure or in control.

Type 5: The Investigator

I want to know, understand and be left alone.

You are likely to:

- be investigative and have a variety of interests
- observe, reflect and research to understand proactively
- be perceptive, mentally alert and can concentrate well
- identify strongly with your thoughts, be cerebral and possibly innovative and open-minded
- seek privacy and isolation at times, which arises from a need for intellectual independence
- challenge conventional wisdom and be idiosyncratic
- spend time on model-building, preparing, exploring information, practicing and intellectualising
- not be particularly trusting and may expect others to be unreliable and lack insight
- avoid what you regard as excessive emotionality and may become socially withdrawn or detached from deep emotional connections

Associated development areas include that you may:

- become emotionally or socially isolated or detached
- tend to avoid intrusive emotionality
- frustrate others that are emotionally needy
